New Legislation Essential Immediately, He Says

Rep. White, Offers Bill That Is Satisfactory

Country Now Has 536 Major Broadcasting Stations

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 6.—New legislation at this session of Congress is essential to prevent "chaos in radio broadcasting and communication," Secretary Hoover told the House Merchant Marine Committee which is considering the radio regulation bill presented by Representative White, Republican, Maine.

Mr. Hoover recommended passage of the bill as meeting "the present public necessity," pointing out that congestion in broadcasting has produced a most pressing need for legislation. He declared the radio public and industry were in accordance with provisions of the measure.

The bill gives the government jurisdiction over all phases of radio communication as they relate to interstate and foreign commerce and the Secretary expressed the belief that "federal supremacy is absolutely essential if the system of communication is to be preserved and advanced." Government control over licenses and wave lengths as now in effect in the Commerce Department also is provided.

Pointing out that there are now 536 major broadcasting stations in the country, Mr. Hoover said there were only 89 wave lengths to be distributed among them with many of the wave lengths below effective use.

FARM BUREAU HEAD
PLEADS FOR THOUGHT

Declares Farm Is Key To Permanent Prosperity

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago, Jan. 6.—Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, in a statement today issued from his office here, pleaded with the American people to give thought to the problem of handling the farmers' exportable surplus.

"If all Americans would open a sympathetic ear and a kindly heart to the farmers' unsatisfactory situation and help relieve his lack of fair income, then if relieved the complete curing of the ill would reflect in a new kind of permanent prosperity among the American people never before witnessed in the world. We have seen the spurt of business and industry because of the partial convalescence of agriculture during 1924 and 1925. Cure the chronic illness of agriculture and all America will benefit."

Idea Is To Prolong Debate To Hold Issue Out

Tax Bill Is To Be Used As Buffer Measure

Smoot Plans To Make This "Unfinished Business"

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 6.—Although all seems quiet on the Potomac with reference to the World Court issue, the truth is the opponents of American entry are by no means asleep. They are as determined to defeat the measure as they were during the League of Nations debate. Their idea now is to prolong the debate as much as possible so that when Senator Smoot, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, brings in the tax bill it will immediately displace everything else.

Chairman Smoot has the assurance of his colleagues that they will make the tax bill the unfinished business before the Senate as soon as it is ready. He wants action not later than March first and so does the country judging from the letters received here by members of Congress. To get the bill passed by the Senate by March first means at least two or three weeks ahead of that date for debate.

If the tax bill is ready the second week in February the World Court will really have about five weeks for debate. Will that be enough? From the viewpoint of the advocates it is sufficient as they are ready now to take a vote. The opponents, however, say the subject has hardly been considered, that until now the real attack on the measure has not been made and that the implications of American entry into the Court have not been thoroughly grasped by the country at large.

It's a small group of "irreconcilables" but a powerful one, led indeed by Senator Borah, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and one of the ablest debaters of the generation.

Strictly speaking the debate will center on entrance into the World Court but actually the advocates and opponents of the measure have in mind the larger aspects of the question.

Old Discord Among Ohio Solons Stirred Up

BIBLE BILL REVIVAL IS ONE POSSIBILITY

Action Is Optional On Part Of Senate

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—(A. P.)—There may be a merry time when the legislature returns January 15 for its proposed one day session.

Direct and indirect indications have come from several members that they will seek to depart from the announced purpose of considering only taxation relief measures. It is almost certain that some of the ghosts of the recessed session will walk again.

Speculation is increasing on whether friends of the Bible bill, which at one time almost precipitated a ramp session of the senate, will attempt to have the measure passed over the veto of Governor Donahy.

It was the March recess which ended in discord over the measure. Supporters of the bill contended the recess order was put through so quickly that no one knew what he was voting for.

For three hours or more, until 4 o'clock in the morning, the senate seethed with turbulent discussion. There were several ineffectual attempts on the part of adherents of the measure to mount the president's rostrum and call the body to order.

Two or three times, Lieutenant Governor Charles H. Lewis, gavel in hand, started to ascend the rostrum to recall members of the upper body to their desks so that the bill could be put to a vote, but each time he was surrounded by gesticulating senators and could get no further.

When the assembly returned in April, the bill was passed by the senate with the identical ease with which its supporters had said it would. It already had gone through the house.

Bible bill supporters have contended that the measure could be passed over the executive veto as easily as it went through before. Two assembly members whose names were not revealed by the reconvening committee, said, in answer to the poll for the session, that they reserved the right to attempt consideration of the Bible bill.

There have been no indications, however, from the recognized leaders of the side, that such an attempt would be made. It is certain that any such move would meet with opposition on the part of legislative leaders; in fact they have let it be understood that they would oppose attempts to

Traffic In Large Cities Is Seriously Impeded

Ocean Vessels Forced To Creep Into Harbors

(By Associated Press.)
New York, Jan. 6.—Central and North Atlantic seacoast towns have had a real taste of a London "pea soup" fog.

Shipping in areas from Charleston, S. C., as far north as Boston have been partially paralyzed for the past 36 hours while normal street and railroad traffic in cities like New York and Boston have been impeded seriously.

Passenger steamers out of Norfolk yesterday were delayed from two to twelve hours and with few exceptions freighters sought safe anchorage until the fog cleared. In New York a fine rain added to the fog's low visibility and for five hours traffic was snarled and delayed. Ferry and railroad service was disorganized and ocean vessels crept slowly into quarantine, in many cases late. No deaths were reported.

In Boston the blanket of fog made the city as dark as night and street lights were lit most of the day. Meteorologists explained that an envelope of warm air over the earth's cold surface accounted for the fog.

Boston, Jan. 6.—Lyford Merrow, Boston millionaire, thought knowledge of domestic science so necessary for a prospective wife that when he died he left $1000 to his son's fiancée to be used in educating her to be a good housewife.

With filing of his will it was revealed that Miss Grace Wooley already had started a course in cookery to fulfill its provisions.

To carry out the letter of the legacy the $1000 must be used "for her education in domestic science and in developing skill as a home maker and companion."

Police Unable To Find Trace Of Him

(By Associated Press.)
Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—With a postcard as their only clue, the police today were searching for Joseph Schwait, 22-year-old Temple University medical student who is believed to have been kidnapped.

The youth left his home yesterday morning to attend his classes. He never reached school but last evening his mother received a postcard mailed at the general postoffice three hours after his disappearance which said: "Kidnaped by white and colored men in machine. Hit on head. Don't worry. Will try to get home. Tell the police. I feel dizzy. Joe."

Detectives suggested the boy had been struck on the head and that the driver, frightened, had taken his victim to another part of the city. They were unable to find any trace of the missing youth.

National Guardsmen Ready For Eventualities

(By Associated Press.)
Evansville, Ind., Jan. 6.—Unionization of the bituminous coal mines in southern Indiana, underway since Monday, halted temporarily today.

Marching toward the Crescent and Sunnyside shafts here at dawn, an army of several hundred union men, bent upon bringing into the union the three hundred men employed there, agreed upon a conference with non-union employees who returned to work pending the meeting.

A campaign to unionize three mines near here was held in abeyance until after the meeting this afternoon. With six non-union mines closed yesterday by a "peaceful campaign," in which the union men marched from mine to mine and brought the unorganized workers into the union, the union miners were certain today that all of the non-union mines would be closed by night.

Officials of the Indiana National Guard, who were requested to send troops here, have not complied with the request but are said to be holding a number of national guardsmen in readiness to send here if conditions warrant.

Foreign Affairs Committee Rejects Amendment To Instruct Delegates

SEN. BURTON, OF OHIO SUGGESTS RESOLUTION BE MADE BROADER

Appropriation Is Made In Compliance With Wish Of President

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 6.—The House Foreign Affairs Committee today unanimously reported a resolution to authorize expenditure of $50,000 for American participation in the preparatory disarmament conference at Geneva.

The committee rejected an amendment to instruct the American delegation to present a resolution calling for consideration of the advisability of outlawing nations that start wars of aggression.

As reported the resolution said the appropriation is made in compliance with the request of President Coolidge.

The committee debated the language of the resolution at length. Representative Burton, Republican, Ohio, said he was informed Soviet Russia would not attend a conference at Geneva because of strained relations between the Moscow and Swiss governments. He suggested making no reference to the meeting place so the American delegates would not be prevented from attending the conference if held elsewhere.

This proposal was dropped without a vote after Representative Eaton, Republican, New Jersey, said he could not see any reason why the United States should join with the Soviet government in dictating where the conference should be held.

The proposal to outlaw war was made by Representative Fish, Republican, New York. It read:

"That the President be requested to instruct the American representatives to endeavor to place upon the agenda of the conference a resolution requesting consideration of effective means of outlawing a nation waging a war of aggression."

The New York members said the resolution was in line with one adopted by the American Legion convention at Omaha. Chairman Porter and Representative Temple, Pennsylvania, ranking Republicans, both opposed it.

"If we go into the question of what is to be considered," Mr. Porter said, "we would have to prepare for the conference for months."

The committee adopted a proposal by Representative Moore, Democrat, Virginia, to make the resolution provide "for participation" in the preliminary conference and not for "collaboration."

"PROPAGANDA" PROBE

Sen. Reed Plans To Appeal Direct To Senate

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 6.—A resolution by Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, proposing investigation of "propaganda" for acceptance of the world court and the war debt settlements was disapproved today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Senator Reed said he would attempt, however, to have the Senate itself act on the proposal.

The committee vote was 8 to 3. Senators Reed, Borah and Johnson voting for a favorable report.

Soon after the committee adjourned, Senator Reed got to his feet before the Senate and began a speech in which he declared the world court and the foreign debt settlement have had behind them the "most astounding propaganda this country and perhaps the world has ever known."

SEEKING FORGIVENESS

Love Ballads Win Wife For Irving Berlin

(By Associated Press.)
Atlantic City, N. J., January 6.—The blessing of Clarence H. Mackay upon the marriage of his daughter, Elin, to Irving Berlin, jazz song writer, will be sought by Mrs. Berlin, she said.

Mr. Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph Company, has said that the marriage had neither his knowledge nor consent.

Mr. and Mrs. Berlin, who were married at New York City Hall, Monday, were surrounded by reporters and photographers as they emerged from the elevator at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

"We are anxious that father should give us his consent and his blessing," said the bride, when asked if they intended to seek her father's forgiveness.

The author of a score of joyous melodies nodded his acquiescence in this desire, and added an emphatic "we are hopeful that it will be granted."

When the newspaper men swarmed about them the bridal pair blushing capitulated to the storm of questions, but were reticent to say more than that they were anxious to receive parental forgiveness. Mrs. Berlin added that they had "decided upon the ceremony impulsively."

They expect to remain here until Friday, when they return to New York to sail aboard the Leviathan for a honeymoon trip to Europe.

The love ballads of Irving Berlin won his bride for him, she admitted. "Of course his songs won me," she said. "At least they made me interested in him."

And Berlin is going to write more than ever now, "because I have Elin to support."

Mrs. Berlin, who has recently written articles for a periodical telling of her repugnance for certain of the persons with whom she had to mingle in society affairs, appeared to be of the opinion that henceforth she would not engage in literary efforts.

"I have Irving to support me now," said the heiress to a part of the Mackay fortune.

Boosting Washington C. H.

—is more than merely “thinking” or “saying” good things about the town. Real, honest-to-goodness BOOSTING means that every citizen of Washington Court House must carry out the following principles every day he lives here:

1. Assume his share of civic responsibilities and contribute his moral and material support to any movement toward good government. An efficient yet human civic administration is the backbone of a prosperous town.
2. Do his part in getting and keeping good churches and schools, for these institutions are the builders of progress for the coming generation.
3. Patronize home merchants and professional men, for they are mainly responsible for the comforts, pleasures and opportunities that this community affords to its citizens.

4. Contribute his every effort toward keeping our streets and yards clean and attractive. An attractive town is good business, for a healthy atmosphere is one of the first requisites for drawing new citizens of the right sort.

5. Be generous in thought, word and deed to his neighbors and fellow citizens. Most of the happiness in life is gotten by doing for others and entering into the spirit of co-operation.

These are the principles that, when every person does his best toward actually carrying them out, will bring us all prosperity and happiness. We prosper only as those about us prosper, so—

Every loyal citizen of Washington Court House is urged to become an active working partner with us—let's do some REAL boosting for our town by MAKING IT BETTER IN EVERY WAY.

Progress Made in Prohibition is Amazing Since Measure Became Law Six Years Ago

(SAYS DRY LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT)

Sixth Anniversary Falls On January 16

Westerville, O., Jan. 6.—(P)—Prohibition's progress since the eighteenth amendment became effective has been amazing, it was asserted by Dr. Francis Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti Saloon League of America. He urged a general observance of January 16, when the country became dry, six years ago.

"The results of prohibition are too far-reaching and too deep-seated to be measured by the smaller number of arrests and the increase of savings accounts," he continued, "but the fact that a drunken man is seldom seen and the year just ended has shown a marked increase of savings accounts has been brought about not in spite of prohibition, but in large measure because of it."

He suggested that churches hold their celebrations on January 17, which falls on Sunday.

January 16 is the sixth anniversary of national constitutional prohibition," Dr. McBride declared. "Prohibition, measured by benefits and blessings, has demonstrated its wisdom. When we consider the fact that the liquor traffic was so greatly entrenched in our country by its grip upon the appetites of more than 25 million people its big financial interests and its political power, the progress made is readily seen to be amazing.

"Prohibition has not been perfect, yet it has made a great advance over the former liquor situation. It has been a great success, measured by truthful comparisons with the old saloon days. However, if we compare it on a 100 percent basis of perfection we can see it has fallen much short of what it must be and can be.

"A call today comes to the friends of the prohibition cause to rally on this, the sixth anniversary of national prohibition. They can make it the principle and practice of the country and its citizens as well as the policy.

During these six years the conclusions has been reached that the prohibition law throughout the United States can be enforced if the real government—the people—are back of the representative government—the officers elected and appointed. The president has asked that the people back home be 'prodded' up, so that the local governments do their duty together with the federal government in making prohibition effective.

DOG LICENSES MOVING RAPIDLY

With 14 days left in which to obtain dog license tags before the $1 penalty becomes effective, the licenses are moving rapidly, and at the noon hour Wednesday around 950 tags issued, with approximately 1600 remaining to be issued during the next two weeks.

After January 20 the officials at the Auditor's office have no alternative but to assess the $1 penalty for each license issued after that date.

Obtaining tags now, it is pointed out, will prevent a long wait at the last moment. Right now hundreds of persons who stood in line to obtain auto license plates know just what it is to wait their turn at the counter to obtain tags.

WHITE MAGIC

Actually Is Flourishing In These Modern Times

DRAMA OF RELIGION

Theology Firmly Clings To Its Efficacy

(By Consolidated Press, Copyright 1926)
BY OWEN L. SCOTT.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—White magic, far from passing into the realm of things forgotten with the advance of civilization, actually is flourishing in these modern times.

This is the finding announced today by Dr. Pieter Rosst, of the Department of Anthropology at the University of Chicago. Dr. Rosst discovers that belief in the efficiency of supernatural powers is not confined to primitive peoples, although the modern use of white magic is not admitted as such.

"White magic," he says, "flourishes luxuriantly in our organized religion, and while its primitive interpretation is losing ground among us, theology firmly clings to its efficacy whether intelligible or not, and modern occultists give it an explanation which outdoes even science in rationalization."

Dr. Rosst explains that "magic is the art of achieving certain desired results by means of an established series of words or acts believed to owe their efficacy to super-physical power."

Following out his attempt to show a similarity between primitive and modern evidences of magic, he says that "the sundance of the plains Indians provides some interesting parallels to the Christian exorcist. Both are mainly religious and in part dramatize a sacred story, but both also have their magical aide. They have in common the elaborate preparation up to a climax, in which the participants share in a higher life of ineffable glory, and the purpose of not only renewing the life of the communicants, but of blessing the whole world at the same time. Both full of symbolic acts which often have magical efficacy; and in both, food is consecrated and taken by those who are especially prepared to receive it, although in the sundance this is not the central act. Finally in both ceremonies spiritual beings are invited to co-operate; and a definite orientation in regard to the cardinal points of the compass is carefully observed.

"The most remarkable similarities, however, are those between the ritual of the Bolivine pedana (in primitive Java) and that of the churches. In both we count: Ritual dress, chalice, paten, oil lamp and the sacred book. It is quite probable that careful investigation would reveal historical connections between some of the Christian symbols and those of the Bolivine pedana.

"The practical side of white magic is not essentially different in primitive society from that practiced in our own civilization. On the theoretical side the differences are greater, yet the most fundamental beliefs—in super-physical power, and in an invisible world in which the spiritual beings wield this power—are everywhere the same. Universal is also the distinction of the beneficent from the maleficent magic, although the churches apply the name 'magic' only to the latter."

WORLD COURT OPPONENTS ARE WORKING QUIETLY TO OBTAIN ENDS

tion, namely further identification with the League of Nations. Many of the Democrats will concede that they are voting for the World Court, which was created by the League, just because it is a step nearer entrance into the League itself. Many "irreconcilables" stand between the two groups arguing that both can't be right and they, therefore, take the Democratic viewpoint that entry into the Court may mean association with the League covenant in a more definite sense later on. As a matter of fact, President Coolidge has disposed to some extent of the doubts concerning American association with the League by sending to Congress a message asking for funds to participate in a preliminary conference in disarmament in which America definitely would co-operate with the council of the League. There is no sign yet that this will be opposed from any quarter but it is noted that the President was careful not to go beyond any promise to attend the preliminary conference which is to formulate a program for discussion. From the viewpoint of the advocates of the World Court this was a wise step because it emphasized that American would co-operate in the future with the council on those things in which American freedom of action is not impaired. The opponents of the Court are not ready to admit by any means that the United States would retain freedom of action in joining the Court, contending instead that moral obligations would be incurred to abide by decrees of the World Court when given as between members of the League and that the United States would sooner or later become entangled in the process whereby those decrees would be enforced by the League of Nations.

While the proponents of the Court have the necessary two thirds vote at the moment, the fight is not over. The minority is trying hard to delay action and defer the matter believing that public opinion can be aroused in opposition if only sufficient time is given for further debate.

MADISON MILLS INSTITUTE ON

EVENT IS MARKED BY GOOD AT-TENDANCE

Special to The Herald.

Madison Mills, Jan. 6.—The Farmers' Annual Institute opened here this morning with a good attendance, and with indications that each session today and Thursday would be largely attended and of deep interest to the farmers and their families in this community.

The state speakers are D. W. Galehouse, of Marshallville, Ohio, and Mrs. D. E. Conn, of Leipsic, Ohio, both familiar with all angles of farming and the problems confronting the farmer and his wife. Howard Clark is president, Charles Noble secretary and Mrs. Jennie Hopkins woman correspondent of the institute.

Music for the various sessions is being furnished by the High School Band and grades, and lunch is being served by the women of the Madison Chapel.

Wednesday evening the program included two addresses, "The Search For the Holy Grail," by Mrs. Conn, and "Community Spirit" by Mr. Galehouse. Music by the band and singing by the High School chorus, and motion pictures.

Thursday morning at 9:30 there will be group singing, address on "What Pure Seed Means to the Farmer" by Mr. Galehouse, discussion by W. W. Montgomery, address on "Solving Home Problems" by Mrs. Conn, and discussion by Minnie Hopkins.

Thursday afternoon at one o'clock there will be a piano solo by Louella Barrett; address on "Price Fluctuations" by Mr. Galehouse; discussion by Howard Hopkins; instrumental music by Miss Barrett, Mr. Dabe and Mr. Nichols; address, "Some Things Money Cannot Buy," by Mrs. Conn, and discussion by Jice Shuffelbarger.

GHOSTS MAY WALK AT SHORT SESSION

bring up anything outside of taxation.

Senator J. Lowry Miller of Middletown has announced that he believes there should be an investigation of the arrest of Dabney Horton, an instructor at the Ohio State University on a charge of having liquor on his premises.

At the last session, Senator Hopley, of Bucyrus introduced a resolution providing for the survey of alleged Bolshevistic and Communistic leanings of members of the University faculty. It died in committee.

However, the same charge against faculty members has been made again in connection with the Horton arrest. This may give added ammunition to those who backed the Hopley resolution.

There are a number of members of the house who refused to commit themselves to the proposed taxation relief program only, and, according to the house and senate clerks, anyone who has done so has a legal right to introduce anything he cares to.

It is considered likely that the question of Governor Donahay's appointments to the state public utilities commission, all of which were turned by the Senate will be re-opened.

There is nothing to prevent the executive from sending further names to the upper body, but, under the call, the senate would not be compelled to act on them, although it could if it chose to.

The governor has not indicated in any manner that he will re-open the issue.

Another thing which is arousing considerable speculation is the recent agitation for abolishment of the preparatory system. Efforts were made last year in the assembly to put through such a bill but they didn't get very far.

In any event, the old expedient of turning the clocks back probably will be resorted to and the "one day" session likely will stretch along into the night and maybe early morning of the next day.

New York, Jan. 6.—American women are developing into a race of cosmetic clowns, Mrs. Ruth Mauner told the national convention of Beauty Shop Owners today.

"Nine out of every ten women," she said, "bungle and abuse the cosmetic art. Everywhere you see the sameness of makeup—the glaring spot of color on the cheeks, the crimson slash of a mouth, the absurd over-abundance of powder and the crude penciling of eyebrows. Through carelessness and ignorance of toilet methods modern faces are resembling masks and comic valentines."

BROOKHART OBJECTS TO RECOUNT OF VOTES

Counsel Says 47 Contested
Ballots Unaccounted For

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, Jan. 6.—Objection to the Senate recount in the Brookhart-Steck Iowa senatorial contest was filed today with the Senate Elections Subcommittee by Senator Brookhart's counsel on the ground there were irregularities in the handling of the ballots.

J. G. Mitchell, counsel for Brookhart, declared there were 47 contested ballots unaccounted for and that ballots from 67 precincts had been received in unsealed mail sacks and opportunity had been given for tampering with them.

He added, however, there were no suggestions of any irregularities since the ballots were taken over by the official supervisors of the recount.

LIQUOR CONSPIRACY INVOLVES 50 OHIOANS

Indictment Is Returned By Federal Grand Jury

(By Associated Press.)

Columbus, Jan. 6.—Four indictments were returned by the recalled December federal grand jury, one of them a liquor conspiracy case involving between 40 and 50 men.

Names of but 23 of the alleged conspirators, who reside in Detroit, Cleveland and Columbus, were revealed by the district attorney, the others being kept secret pending their arrest.

District Attorney Maw said arrests in several cities would be made forthwith and it was expected all of the alleged conspirators would be in federal custody by the end of the week. The conspiracy indictment also is said to involve several Philadelphia men.

FATHER SAVES FAMILY

BY IMPROVISING FIRE ESCAPE, WITH CLOTHES LINE

(By Associated Press.)

Cleveland, Jan. 6.—Three small children trapped on the second floor of lives to the prompt action of their father, George Stesanosow, who lowered them to the ground with a clothes line. Mrs. Stesanosow then slid down the rope to safety while her husband, scorched by the spreading flames, was forced to leap to the ground to save himself.

ANYTHING FOR MONEY

New York, Jan. 6.—Four Brooklyn boys, the oldest fifteen, admit Florida real estate has captured their imagination. They told fire department officials they had started a fire in a public school "so that they would not be missed" and could go to Florida to make their fortune. They were turned over to the juvenile authorities.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK

(By Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 6.—An earthquake shock caused many people living along the Rhine to awaken from their sleep early today and rush out of their homes to open spaces, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Cologne. The shock was felt generally throughout western Germany. No damage was reported.

MRS. NEWTON STUCKEY DIES WEDNESDAY NOON

DESPERATE EFFORT TO SAVE
LIFE PROVES FUTILE

Mrs. Carrie Stuckey, 30, wife of Newton Stuckey died at 11:00 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Hodson Hospital within a few minutes after she had undergone an operation. She had been ill for the past six weeks with her condition becoming more complicated and serious day by day until an operation was decided on in a last desperate effort to save her life. She was taken to the hospital Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Stuckey has a large family connection in Washington C. H. and Fayette county as well as an unusually large number of close friends. Until her health began to fail, she was employed as a teacher in the school at Staunton.

She is survived by her husband, her mother, Mrs. Oscar Ortman, two sisters, Misses Lillian and Mary Ortman, and two brothers, George and Albert Ortman. She was the daughter of Oscar Ortman, who was killed in a crossing crash just north of Jeffersonville a little over a year ago.

The body was taken to the McCoy Mortuary and prepared for burial and taken to the Stuckey home on the Jamestown road to await the funeral services. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

WILL INCREASE PACKING PLANT

Addition of new machinery to increase the present capacity, and other extensions were decided up for The Fayette Canning Company's Plant in this city, at the annual meeting of the stockholders and executive board held this week.

In addition to plans for an increased pack of sugar corn, tomatoes, and pumpkins, plans call for equipment for canning green beans and possibly another item, to be determined later.

At the meeting of stockholders the annual election of officers was held, and they reorganized as follows: W. M. Campbell, president; A. S. Hammond, Vice-President; B. A. Schadel, Secretary-Treasurer, and E. C. Morton and F. L. Tutton, additional directors.

D. S. Cochran, who has been plant superintendent for many years and one of the best canning experts in central Ohio, was re-employed for the year.

The Cecilians convened at the Federated Club rooms Tuesday afternoon for the annual business session. Miss Edith Gardin, President, in the chair. Miss Mabel Briggs, Treasurer, gave her report, and Mrs. Elva H. Kelley, secretary, read the Constitution.

The election returned to office by a unanimous vote the officers of 1925. Miss Edith Gardin, President; Mrs. Elva H. Kelley, Vice President; Mrs. Myrtle Klever, corresponding secretary; Miss Mabel Briggs, treasurer.

The later business of the afternoon was completing plans for the concert course which the Cecilians are announcing for the winter. Two exceptionally fine concerts will be sponsored and presented at the High School auditorium.

The first will be the Zimmer Harp Trio, the oldest Harp Trio and has the record of having given more Harp concerts than any other representative of that instrument in America this season. Tom Williams, the Welsh baritone, will sing on all programs with the Zimmer Harp Trio. One group of his songs will be given over to the old Welsh folksongs, in native tongue, with the original harp accompaniment.

This concert will be given Thursday evening, January the twenty-first.

The second concert will be presented by Francis McMillan, world famous violinist, on Friday evening, March the twenty-sixth. Mr. McMillan has just returned from a triumphal concert tour in South America.

The wedding of Miss Mayne Ray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Ray, of Jeffersonville, and Mr. Lester Coler, son of Mrs. Mary F. Coler, of South Charleston, was performed at the McNair Memorial manse in this city Tuesday morning at half past eleven o'clock.

The attractive bride wore a becoming gown of drapery blue stain crepe, with trimmings of thrush tan georgette. Her hat was of salmon taffeta and gold lace.

The ring ceremony was read by Reverend P. J. Henness in the presence of the attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lower, of Springfield, Mrs. Lower a sister of the bride and Mr. Lower a cousin of the groom. Mrs. Lower wore a modish costume of black crepe, with trimmings of poppy red.

A dinner at the home of the bride's parents near Jeffersonville followed the ceremony, after which the young couple went immediately to their own home in South Charleston, where the groom is associated in business.

Mrs. Coler has numerous friends in this city, who are learning of her marriage with interest.

The fore part of the regular session of the Browning club, held Tuesday evening at the Federated club rooms, was devoted to the nomination of officers for the new year's work and was directed by Mrs. Mary C. Barnes, president.

The entertaining program which followed, was presented by the Department of Literature, Mrs. Margaret Cochran, chairman. Mrs. Caroline Lewis gave the opening paper, splendidly prepared and interestingly given, upon the subject of "Makers of Modern American Fiction" and in dealing with her subject, spoke individually of a number of today's writers—among them Kathleen Norris, James Oliver Curwood, Mary Roberts Rhinehart, Zane Gray, Sinclair Lewis, Hutchinson, with particular stress given to Jean Stratton Porter.

Mrs. Dollie Willis gave a complete and accurate review of the novel "One Increasing Purpose," by Hutchinson, which she told in a graceful story form.

Mrs. Blanche McFadden concluded the program with a story "The Neighbor," given in her usual entertaining manner.

Mrs. Gerrie Spragg, a charming and responsive hostess, entertained the Tuesday luncheon-bridge club with a beautiful dinner Tuesday evening.

Aquamarine crystal, tall candles of Sauterne yellow, and flowers in harmonious sunset shades and artistic arrangement, pretty place cards marking the covers, created a lovely ensemble in table decoration. The dinner courses were delicious and gayly enjoyed.

The evening was whiled away in the popular game, its pretty trophies going to Mrs. C. Howard Griffin scoring high progressions, and to Mrs. A. P. Rusk, of Zanesville, as visiting guest favor.

The announcement of an engagement of much interest among friends of the family in this city is that of Miss Opal Dell Chaney, of Youngstown, to Mr. Dean L. Brooks.

Miss Chaney, the daughter, of the late Dr. and Mrs. N. H. Chaney, whose

A hospitable pocket hangs out its lachstring on a smart frock of dash-blue crepe de Chine with its tie-collar faced with Nattier blue to match the job ribbon.

The two-piece frock is a deceptive creation. Sometimes it appears to be one when it isn't. Other times it doesn't look like one when it is. The frock illustrated is a case in point. It has the new long blouse that looks like a long body and a very brief circular skirt quite separate and sewed to an underbody but with the effect of a circular flounce. It is very smart in the Spring crepes—flat crepe, Canton crepe, satin crepe and heavy crepe de Chine, the printed crepes and printed crepes de Chine.

early girlhood was spent in this city, is prominent in musical circles and has endeared herself to her friends by her charm of personality.

Mr. Brooks is general secretary of the P. and L. E. Y.M.C.A. at Haselton and President of the Dr. Chaney Bible class of Trinity M. E. Church.

Miss Chaney presided over a luncheon and during the festivities the announcement was made via miniature newspaper extras.

Among the seasons most attractive parties in the Junior Set was a rook party, with Miss Betty Ballard a pretty and winsome young hostess.

Four tables were gayly at play throughout the afternoon, the trophies, a strand of beads and a lolly pop doll, going to Miss Mary Ann Story and Miss Jean Farquhar.

A delicious luncheon of dainty appointments was served, Mrs. C. Pearce Ballard and mother, Mrs. A. P. Rusk, of Zanesville, assisting in the hospitalities.

Enjoying the affair were Misses Mary Ann Story, Mary Louise Mark, Marjorie Penn, Janet Daugherty, Florence Mabel Sparks, Jean Farquhar, Janet Junk, Katherine Persinger, Dorothy Wilkin, Woldeane Technor, Sarah Madge Conwell, Lona Gibson, Martha Stone, Emily Rowe, Winona Shoemaker.

Members of the Tuesday Kensington Club are indebted to Mrs. J. J. Kelley for a club session of exceptional pleasure and interest.

Mrs. Richard Vincent, of Washington, D. C., was a guest.

Mrs. Kelley was assisted by Mrs. Arthur Burgett in serving a delectable collation.

Mrs. Walter G. Evans, of Canton and sister, Mrs. C. C. Philbrick, of Columbus, spent the past two days here, Mrs. Evans dismantling her home here and moving her furniture to her Canton home.

Mrs. A. P. Rusk, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. Pearce Ballard, and family, over the holidays, returned to her home in Zanesville Wednesday.

Mrs. Willard Story and daughter, Clara, are spending the week with Mrs. Story's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Howard, in Circleville.

Mr. Mace McCoy is spending the week in Detroit, attending the Dodge Brothers' Company convention. Mrs. McCoy's mother, Mrs. W. F. Clark, of Columbus, is her guest for the week.

Miss Martha Louise Peters has returned to Sullins College, Bristol, Va., after spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Peters, of Good Hope.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Jenkins were motoring visitors in Wilmington, Monday.

Mrs. Martha Bradford, of Xenia, who was here to deliver an address at the Marion Township Farmer's Institute, Tuesday, remained over night the guest of Dr. Lucy Pine.

Mr. Clyde Larimer has resigned his position with the Slagle Lumber Company and has entered Ohio State University for the second semester.

Miss Sarah DeWees has gone to Columbus to assist at the Columbus Blank Book Company during the season of invoicing.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Powers, Mrs. Charles Fitchhorn and Mr. Frank Smith, of Milledgeville, were motoring visitors in Springfield, Wednesday.

MISS DAISY DEWITT DIES IN CALIFORNIA

BODY OF MISS DAISY DEWITT TO BE BURIED HERE

Bloomington, Jan. 6.—Relatives here have received word of the death in Hollywood, Calif., of Miss Daisy DeWitt last Saturday following a lingering illness of over two years. The end came near the noon hour in a private hospital.

Miss DeWitt was formerly a resident of Bloomington. Her mother, Mrs. Susan DeWitt, and two brothers, Herman and Perry DeWitt, and a sister, Maude, all of this place, and another brother, Fred, of Springfield, survive her.

The body is expected to reach Fayette county sometime late Friday or early Saturday. It will be taken to the Klever Mortuary in Washington C. H. and prepared for burial following the long trip from the West, according to present plans. The funeral arrangements have not yet been definitely determined.

MARION FARMERS INSTITUTE DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCES

INDEPENDENT INSTITUTE VERY SUCCESSFUL

The second very successful farmers independent institute was held at Marion township centralized school building, Tuesday, with large attendance at each of the three sessions, and a number of really worth while lectures and discussions, in addition to a number of musical numbers and readings.

The sessions were held in the main auditorium of the school building, with President J. A. McLain presiding at each session, and two good lecturers—John A. Hummon, of Leipsic, Ohio, and Mrs. Martha Bradford, of Xenia, lecturing.

The pupils of the Marion school contributed a number of songs and recitations at the various sessions, and the closing session was featured by Miss Gwendolyn Wolfe's orchestra, from this city, which played a number of times during the evening.

The lectures delivered by Mr. Hummon were: "Some Essentials in Better Agriculture," "Some Mistsakes and Successes We Have Made," and "Brotherhood—Why Men Should set the Example."

Lectures delivered by Mrs. Bradford were: "Homely Helps" and "A Better Community."

At the afternoon session the Farm Bureau Quartet, composed of Harry Silcott, Homer Kessler, Herbert Cockerill and Bruce King, with Mrs. Beryl Cockerill at the piano, was popular, and every number greeted with applause by the delighted audience.

Mrs. A. C. McCoy gave a saxophone solo at the afternoon session and Mrs. Cornelia McClimans a cello solo at the evening session.

Lunch was served by the women of the parent-teachers association, and from this most of the expenses of the institute were met.

Plans are on foot for an institute to be held at Marion school house next year.

ALICE JANE LYNCH DIES IN SABINA

Special to The Herald.

Sabina, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Alice Jane Lynch, aged 50, wife of Thomas Lynch, of near Sabina, and mother of Earl Lynch, of Washington C. H., passed away at her home Tuesday morning, death occurring suddenly, from an unknown cause, but believed to be complications from diabetes.

Mrs. Lynch is survived by the widow; four sons, Earl, of Washington C. H., and Walter, Ola and Ernest, at home; and two daughters, Misses Irene and Hazel, at home; a sister, Mrs. Minnie Wilson, of Washington C. H.; four brothers, George Beverly, Harry Beverly, Lawrence Beverly, and Charles Beverly, all of Sabina; and her mother, Mrs. Celina Beverly, of Sabina.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Lynch home Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock, in charge of Rev. Eliza Thorne, and burial will be made in the Sabina cemetery.

INSTALLMENT VIII BACK FROM THE DEAD

Shayle's face hardened and a little muscle grew tight in his cheek as he thought of the storm of opposition through which they would have to pass. Well, he did not care if she did not, and, after all, money was not everything if they had one another.

He wondered what attitude Jim would take, and then realized that it did not matter either way. Jim was only a boy.

He stretched his arms above his head and lifted his face to the sun. Life was good after all. Life and youth and strength and love, and he had them all; money was only the sop offered by the gods to those less favored.

He had turned away when a voice spoke from the road close beside him.

"I beg your pardon, but is this the house they call The Chantry?"

And Shayle started and came back from his dreaming to the presence of a woman standing in the road where a moment before Jim Wye-Smith had stood.

He began to answer her. "This is The Chantry, yes, but—" he broke off, inquiringly, and a faint, enigmatic smile crossed the woman's face.

"I see you don't remember me," she said.

"Remember you!" The blood rose cruelly from Shayle's throat to his forehead, and he took a blind grip of the gate with both hands.

"Remember you—I am afraid not," the woman laughed—a cool, amused little laugh.

"Well, then, my memory is evidently better than yours," she said, calmly. "Because although you look years older I should have known you anywhere, Shayle. I am Lena."

So the great dread had come to life after all. The dreams of last night had been but phantom warnings of what was to come, and the Castle of Happiness was razed to the ground. And the sun still shone, and the air was still fresh and sweet after yesterday's storms, even though this woman whom Shayle hated with all the passionate intensity of his heart, stood there but a few paces away watching him with that cool, critical little smile in her eyes.

And so after more than ten years they were face to face again, and for some long moments Shayle could neither move nor speak, but the knuckles of his hands stood out white with the grip he had of the gate, and the blood had drained away from his face. Then with an effort he spoke.

"Well, if I have not altered, you have! I should have passed you anywhere and not recognized you."

What a banal thing to say when his heart was a cauldron of despair and rage and hatred, that seemed but to increase in its passionate bitterness and resentment at the sound of her cool little laugh.

"Perhaps the wish is father to the thought," she said. She came a step nearer, so that by moving his hand he could have touched her, and she went on carelessly:

"I've dyed my hair, you see. It used to be brown, do you remember? Or don't you choose to remember? And I'm better dressed, Shayle—my clothes came from Paris. Oh, I've learned a lot since you and I used to fight and wrangle in those rooms off the Edgewater Road."

She shuddered daintily and bit her lip; then, with a little shrug, dismissed the thought and laughed again.

"Aren't you going to ask me in? It's not very polite, and as we are to be such near neighbors—"

He found his voice then.

"What do you mean?"

"That I've bought Ivy Cottage."

"You!"

"Yes. Didn't you know? I'm surprised. I thought I'd created quite a stir in the village with my golden hair and my smart clothes. That nice boy from High Elms told me that the Vicar's wife had a special tea party to see what the parishioners thought about calling. You see, I can't produce a husband unless—"

Laughter filled her carefully darkened eyes. "Unless you care to claim your privileges." He made no answer. For the life of him he could not have made one, and she said again: "Well, ask me in. It doesn't look very nice to keep a lady standing out in the road."

With an effort he dragged himself from the gate.

"I'll walk down the road with you."

For a moment he thought she was going to refuse, then she gave in. "Oh, very well. I'll show you over the cottage. I've spent a lot of money on it, Shayle."

He walked beside her like a man in a dream. Everything seemed so unreal. It was as if some giant hand had suddenly turned the whole world over, blotting out everything he had once known and believed in, and substituted a strange unreality in its place.

He looked at the woman beside him; looked and looked, as if to force home to his brain the fact that she at least was real. She was expensively dressed, and in exquisite taste. She had aged very little; indeed, she looked slimmer and younger, if anything—more of the lady, more—his brain could not find the word he sought. Presently he broke out:

"Why have you come here? What do you want with me? I've no money. I'm penniless. I've nothing to give you."

She answered serenely that she had plenty of money, and again he blurted out hoarsely:

"Then why have you come?"

She raised her brows.

He cut in rudely:

"You need not trouble to tell lies. I want the truth."

Her eyes met his. Pretty eyes he had thought them in the old days, but now he hated them for their subtle darkness, their world-wise look.

"It is the truth, Shayle," she said, "though I don't ask you to believe it—yet! It's ten years since you and I met, and there is time to do a great deal of thinking in ten years, isn't there? And I've thought—often, that if ever we met again—"

Tomorrow—"Torture for Shayle."

BLUE AND WHITE TO PLAY CENTRAL OF COLUMBUS ASS.C.O. LEAGUE OPENS

PRE-SEASON GAMES FAIL TO SHOW UP A FAORITE.

The long-anticipated opening of the South-Central Ohio Basketball League will take place Friday evening, when Hillsboro and Wilmington will lock horns at the Clinton capital, Circleville and Greenfield will pace up and down the McClain High floor and Chillicothe and Frankfort will blow off the lid at Frankfort.

All of these games should be close and exciting, with the winners only decided at the final toot of the referee's whistle. Pre-season games have refused to point to any one team as out-standing in the S-C.O. League, all seeming to be of equal calibre. This presages one of the most bitterly contested races fans around the circuit have had the pleasure to gaze upon.

While their six League companions are battering each other around, the Washington C. H. High School will endeavor to head off the strong quintet from Central High, of Columbus, the Blue and White squad having drawn the bye for the first week of South-Central activities.

B. T. U. QUINTET WINS FROM BUCKSKIN FIVE

ABSENCE OF STAR PERFORMERS SLOWS UP GAME.

The Merchants B. T. U. five, of this city, defeated the Buckskin Independents, of South Salem, 21 to 16, Tuesday night, at the Y. M. C. A., in a fairly interesting game.

The Merchants boys were handicapped by the absence of Bud Brownell and Carroll Flee, two of their star performers and as a result did not display to strong passing game that they have shown in previous games. Ray Snider, the diminutive forward, was the star of the evening's performance. He seemed to have the range of the basket and he dropped in five buckets from the floor, several from difficult angles. Babe Flee and Tom DeWees also played a fast floor game, while Tom Clark put up his usual good game at the guard position.

The Buckskin lads had a well-developed style of team work but were woefully weak on basket shooting.

Had they caged even a fair percentage of their easy shots the B. T. U.'s might have had a loss chalked up against them.

The first quarter was close, ending 6 to 4, with the locals leading. The Fraternity outfit got going in the second period, counting eight points while holding their opponents to a single basket. The third quarter was one of the most peculiar ever played on a local floor. For over seven minutes neither team was able to register a single point. In the last thirty seconds Kline dropped in a fielder for the only score of this period. The last quarter found both teams playing a hard, fighting game, Buckskin caging eight points to the B. T. U.'s, 7.

This game was one of the cleanest contests ever played here. Only four personal fouls were called throughout the game, one on Buckskin and three on the locals.

The B. T. U. quintet will travel to Bloomingburg, Thursday evening, to play the fast Independent team, of that place. On account of the "Week of Prayer" services being observed in the various churches, this week, this game will not be called until 8:15. The B. T. U.'s will also travel to South Salem, Tuesday, January 12, to play the Buckskin team a return game.

BARBERS TAKE TWO FROM BANKER FIVE

DIVERSITY OF SCORES MARKS EVENING'S BOWLING.

A great diversity of scoring ability marked the league bowling series, on the Y. M. C. A. alleys, Tuesday night, between the Barbers and Bankers. The Barbers emerged from the battle with two victories and one loss.

The Barbers "hit 'em hard" in the first game and turned in the high score of the evening with 809 they then proceeded to weaken more than 200 pins and dropped the second tilt by a 5 pin margin, but they staged a come-back in the last game and rolled a 623 for a victory by a comfortable margin.

Carl Noon, with 197, in the opening game, was high individual scorer.

BLOOMINGBURG HIGH READY FOR ACTION

O. S. U. FRATERNITY FIVE SLATED FOR FRIDAY NIGHT.

(Special to The Herald). Bloomingburg, O., January 6.—The local high school basketball quintet will resume activities after a two weeks' vacation by playing one of the strongest teams a Bloomingburg High School five has ever been called on to face here, Friday evening. Their opponent on this date will be the Delta Sigma Phi team, of the Ohio State University, Ontra-Mural League.

The Fraternity team is composed of players who have all had plenty of experience in high school basketball, and besides, one or two have worked out with the O. S. U. varsity basketball squad. Their line-up includes Ackerman, star forward, of the Wauseon High quintet, when that team won the Ohio State championship, at Delaware, in 1923. Moler, who made the All-Columbus team while playing with the East High court squad, Manthey, a forward, who has been trying out for the O. S. U. varsity five, Harrison, former Columbus West player and Bomer, another star in his high school days at Salem, Ohio.

Ackerman, Moler and Harrison were members of the varsity football squad while Bomer is a varsity tennis star. Realizing that they are going up against some real competition, Friday evening, the B. H. S. boys have been engaging in some strenuous practice sessions under the capable direction of Coach Biddle. The local mentor formerly played with the Fraternity team and is teaching his proteges a style of defense he believes will make the O. S. U. lads earn every point they get.

A New Wizard

Once again, it seems from reports, the great financial house of Morgan and Company has been vanquished in a battle of money and wits by that new financial genius, that money wizard who came out of the west and is now athwart the sky of eastern business, dazzling the old timers by his brilliance.

Automobile company mergers, the purchase and re-financing of The National Cash Register plants and now securing the job of working out a gigantic merger for German steel companies are some of the outstanding achievements which have startled the world of finance and business, not only by the completeness and the swiftness with which they have been accomplished, but also by the fact that the older houses, notably the Morgan house, have been outdone completely.

The new financial meteor who has blazed his way across the sky of the financial world is Clarence P. Dillon, who came from down Texas way—out there where they have room and plenty of it to dream and to do big things in a big way.

He has brought that bigness of thought and action—that breezy confidence—to the crowded and conservative east and thus far, has the old timers in business and finance standing, awed and quiet, on the side lines.

Dillon is neither a speculator nor a plunger—he is just doing big things in a big way.

Fine Wayne

The czar of prohibition law enforcement, Wayne B. Wheeler, greets the American people on the coming of the New Year with the cheering announcement that great strides forward in prohibition enforcement have been made.

We think so, too. We have thought for some time that we were going forward even when Mr. Wheeler and many of his dry cohorts were, either because they actually believed it or because they wanted to keep people wrought up on the prohibition question, rather doubted, and by their weakly rejoinders, if not positive acquiescence, lent force to the claims of the wets that prohibition never could be enforced.

We wouldn't say though, that the strides forward have been made in prohibition enforcement. Rather, we would phrase our expression as to conditions—that great strides forward have been made in prohibition observance.

We can't enforce prohibition. All the police, the army and the navy and the treasury's millions can't enforce prohibition if the people don't want it.

Every day though, more people are coming back to the respect of law and the constitution and obeying the prohibition provisions and that means true progress.

If both the dries and the wets would talk less, the progress would be more satisfactory even than it has been.

Back on the Job

Congress resumed its session Monday following the holiday vacation and, thus far, the prospects are promising for a really worth while session.

Up to the present time there has been an agreeable absence of probes and threats of probes, a quieting down of the insurgents. Even Senator Borah occasionally agrees with a proposal if he is not urged too much.

There is a long grind ahead of Congress even under the best of conditions, and if a political row breaks forth, the session may drag on indefinitely.

The people have learned that we are just as well off—probably better—with little work by Congress. The legislative body is not regarded with so much importance as it once was. Business goes along much better now than it formerly did and pays much less attention to Congress.

There is, of course, some very vital work for Congress to do, but there are a great many more proposals that should be ignored or passed with little time spent on them than there are really worth while proposals.

It seems that the members of Congress have sensed the public's desires and are going to spend less time this session advertising themselves and doing useless things and more on really important tasks.

AGRICULTURALIST OUT ON OWN HOOK TO SOLVE RIDDLE OF SURPLUS CROP

Farmers Only Hope For Best From Congress

Refuse, However, To Put All Eggs In One Basket

White Corn Sugar Pushed As One Outlet

By J. C. ROYLE

(By Consolidated Press, Copyright 1926)
New York, Jan. 6.—Business men, economists and farmers are not depending entirely on Congress to solve the problem of disposing of surplus American products. Although many agriculturists are not sorry to hear of demands for investigation of the Tariff Commission, or revisions of tariff schedules, they are turning more and more to the belief that additional consumption will bring surest relief.

That was shown today in the hearty advocacy by some experts closely associated with agriculture of the use of corn sugar. They declare white sugar made from corn is gaining in commercial importance and becoming an increasingly effective agency for the stabilizing of the corn market. It resembles cane and beet sugar but is not so sweet.

One Illinois factory alone is turning out 450,000 pounds of corn sugar daily and another plant is about ready to go into commission at Kansas City. Attention has been pointed to corn sugar by the surplus of corn now in farmers' hands and their appeals for help for aid in disposing of it profitably. It is urged that the farmer himself, by using corn sugar, can trend materially to promote its use and thus make a market for his own crops.

About 1,700,000,000 of the 10,000,000,000 pounds of sugar consumed annually in this country are grown within the boundaries of the United States. It is claimed that if Americans use only 25 percent as much corn sugar as is now imported in other sugars it will make a market for 80,000,000 bushels of corn without injuring the beet sugar industry in the least. One bushel of corn can be converted into 25 pounds of corn sugar.

In the meantime, Cuban sugar growers are still shouting lustily for a revision of the tariff on Cuban raw sugars downward.

In connection with corn supply and consumption, the statement of Secretary Mellon that "the entire foreign debt is not worth as much to the American people in dollars and cents as a prosperous Europe" was deemed specially significant. Most corn is marketed in the form of meat.

Exports of meat and lard showed a decline of about 500,000,000 pounds in the year ending last Friday, according to the Institute of American Meat Packers. This decrease added a similar amount to supplies, which must be consumed in this country. Total production of meat and lard for the last year approximately 20,000,000 pounds, somewhat less than the output of 1924.

Exports despite the decreases noted above, amounted to 1,500,000,000 pounds approximately, and were worth $250,000,000. The increasing value of livestock and the low prices for corn and other feed, are expected by packers to lead to increased production of animals for slaughter later this year.

In spite of the decreased number marketed, the instituted estimates farmers received $200,000,000 more for their livestock in the last year than in 1924.

The wheat growers also are scurrying for methods which will enable them to market their products more satisfactorily. They point out that Canada's wheat crop this year is drawing $500,000,000 in new money into the Dominion and that the crop is in direct competition with American wheat in world markets.

Nature's Notebook

HEMLOCK

Of all the evergreen trees that make our heart glad in winter, the hemlock stands among the noblest. Most of the conifers are contented to stand on the edges and ends of forest lands, holding territory the farthest north, the highest up the mountains, the deepest into the swamps and bogs, and other marginal lands that the broad-leaved summer forests have no use for. But the hemlock consorts with the finest of the hardwoods; the highest type of northern forest in the world is the beech-maple-hemlock association of Michigan. In Europe also, where the forest is mostly straight beech instead of beech-maple, the hemlock goes with the beech. The "Tannenbaum" of which German children sing at Christmas is a hemlock.

The German "Tannenbaum" is cognate with the English word, to "tan", for the bark of the hemlock is one of the best sources of tanning materials, and indeed was for many years the thing for which the tree was chiefly valued. The wood of the hemlock, while fairly strong, is rather coarse and brash, not comparing with pine or spruce; but in the evil day that are upon us now, with timber growing ever scarcer, hemlock is considered a rather valuable lumber tree.

The "root" of hemlock dugged if the dark of Shakespearian witchcraft, and the cup of poison hemlock that was the instrument of martyrdom of Socrates, have nothing to do with the noble hemlock tree. They are the poison hemlock, or colum, an evil weed belonging to the parsley family; and the name "hemlock" attached to it is a base libel on a worthy forest citizen.

POETRY FOR TODAY

TO A LITTLE GIRL

In your vague world of surface certainties
You are a potentate by grace divine,
Waving your grand imperious decrees—
Your "Come!" and "Go!" your
"Give!" and "Me!" and "Mine!"—
With the slim gesture of stupendous faith;
Dolly must eat; dolly must sleep;
the train
Shall pass or not. Reality and wealth
Have but to yield to you, august and vain.

In your vague world there is a scheme of things
More lucid than the one you soon must know—
A square of blocks in primal colorings
And each block has its own place in a row.
I stand in wistful wonder at your door
To hear the wisdom of your simple lore.

THE ROAD TO PROSPERITY

CROSS BREED SHEEP TO GET COLORS

Shiprock, N. M.—(AP)—The Navajo Indian, a stalwart nomad of the Painted Desert, has gone for afield to improve the strain of the sheep which provide wool for the famous Navajo blankets.

Successful experiments with Karakul sheep, imported from Asia, have led to steps taken to renew the Karakul blood among the native sheep of the reservation by the importation of more of these rare animals.

The Karakul sheep is the source of a valuable fur known to furriers as Broadtail, Persian Lamb, or Astrachan. The cross between the Karakul and native Navajo sheep has produced an animal bearing a beautiful wool, not too fine for rug weaving, ranging in shades through tan, yellowish brown and reddish brown.

The Navajo sheep owner, as a rule sells his entire clip of wool to the traders of the reservation, regardless of color of the wool. The trader sorts the "off" colors and stores them in the wool room. Later the Navajo women who are the weavers of the blankets which have made the tribe famed throughout the world, visit the wool rooms at the trading posts. They select the reposes themselves of such portions of the "off" colored wools as they may need for weaving purposes.

Although many attempts have been made among eastern manufacturers to color wool artificially for weaving, in imitation of this natural product, the dyed wools fail by a wide margin to bring the prices demanded for the rugs and blankets fabricated from the natural product.

ROUMANIAN ROYAL SCANDAL PUNCTURES QUEEN MARIE'S AMBITION TO SEE HER DAUGHTER, PRINCESS ILEANA, ON THRONE OF BRITAIN

Prince Carol Celebrates
Abdication in Paris

Blase Rounders Are Given
Wild Parties

BY JACKSON V. JACOBS
Central Press Correspondent

Paris, January 5.—Finally successful in his efforts to abandon his royal rank and be an insignificant commoner, Carol, eldest son of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Roumania, is celebrating in Paris and giving the most blase rounders something to talk about in the way of wild parties. Meanwhile the throne he loved less than the daughter of an Army officer is in danger.

This Army officer's daughter, Zizi Lambrino, the morganatic wife, Carol was compelled to divorce in 1920, has disappeared from Bucharest, where she has been living on a handsome compensation provided by the royal family, and a reunion is expected.

Carol never really abandoned his first wife with whom he has had three children. It is believed his abdication will be followed by a divorce from Princess Helene and re-marriage to Zizi.

When the crown prince was punished for this marriage with imprisonment, he threatened to take his life. Then he made several attempts to renounce his rights. The court hoped that all his wild oats had been sowed and that he would "keep on the reservation" after he had been married to the Princess Helene, of Greece. The one son born of this union, Michael, four, has been designated by the king as heir to the throne.

Carol's renunciation has caused great excitement throughout Roumania, and it is feared in some quarters that agitators will take advantage of the situation to put an end to the royal regime. Bolsheviks have long been endeavoring to undermine the monarchy. Prince Nicholas, Ferdinand's second son, is reported to be dissatisfied with his father's decision to make Michael the heir apparent, and may make trouble. When Carol abdicated Nicholas was in Paris with

One important effect that Carol's action may have is the final frustration of the ambition of Marie, the "matchmaking queen," to see her youngest daughter, Ileana, on the British throne. She has long been angling to have Ileana become the bride of the Prince of Wales. Now her hopes have gone glimmering. The conservative British royal family would not be likely to countenance the marriage of Wales to a princess with a scapegrace brother running at large.

STILL IN JAIL SERVING TIME

Ray Tyree, colored, who was recently fined $100 and the costs by Mayor Fultz, of Jeffersonville, is still in the county jail where he probably will remain for sometime serving time in lieu of payment of the amount.

Tyree recently appeared before the Marshall of Jeffersonville and asked to be locked up.

"Why do you want to be locked up?" he was asked.

Tyree is said to have pulled a bottle from his pocket and took another drink whereupon his request to be locked up was granted, and he drew $100 and costs for illegal possession of the liquor.

OLD TRICK FAILS MAN IS ARRESTED

Harry McCarty, who has been in the toils more than once on a charge of non-support filled by his wife, but has always managed to get out of the hands of the court by some good promises, is once more in the county jail on the same charge, having been arrested at Seima, Clark county, by Deputy Sheriffs Minton and Whitmer. When arrested here a short time

WEEKLY SUMMARY OF THE WEATHER

AVERAGE TEMPERATURE 10 DEGREES BELOW NORMAL

The week beginning at 7:00 o'clock on December 27 and ending at 7:00 p. m. January 3 had an average temperature 10 degrees below the normal and precipitation .63 inches below normal. The mean temperature for the week was 20.5 degrees and the precipitation for the week was but .01 of an inch.

The summary:
Maximum 43 degrees on January 2.
Minimum—2 degrees on December 28.

Mean maximum 32 degrees.
Mean minimum 9 degrees.
Mean temperature 20.5 degrees.

Greatest daily range 29 degrees on December 31.

Precipitation for the week .01 inches.
Precipitation for the month .01 in.

Th. 3 days clear, 2 days partly cloudy and 2 days cloudy.

MONTH OF DECEMBER BOTH COLD AND DRY

AVERAGE TEMPERATURE FOR MONTH BELOW FREEZING

The average temperature for the month of December, 1925, was below normal by 2.5 degrees, which, incidentally is not an unusual deviation for mercury to take, as well as being below freezing. The mean temperature for the month as recorded by Elmer E. Bales, Official U. S. Co-operative Weather Observer at the Octa Station was 28.1 degree while the normal temperature is 30.6 degrees.

If the temperature was below normal, the precipitation for the month was lower. During December the total amount of precipitation recorded by the observer was only .52 of an inch .5 of an inch of which was snow. The normal precipitation for December is 2.81 inches.

Comparing with Decembers found in the Fayette county weather record the observer finds the warmest, 40.6 degrees in 1918, the coldest 22.2 degrees, in 1917, the wettest, 6.52 inches in 1883 and the driest .52 inches in 1925.

The maximum temperature recorded during the month was 55 degrees on December 11 and the minimum was 4 degrees below zero on December 27. There only 8 clear days, 9 partly cloudy and 14 were entirely cloudy.

MOVING LIQUOR BY CAR-LOADS

Special to The Herald.

Lynchburg, O., Jan. 6.—Bonded liquor is now being moved from the Lynchburg Distillery here by the car load, the work being done under the watchful eyes of Deputy Sheriffs, Prohibition Inspectors and Federal guards, who scan every movement and make certain that none of the contraband liquid gets away into illegal channels.

It is said that 160 car loads of the liquor will be moved, and at the present time this is being shipped to Pittsburg, and placed in storage, under heavy guard.

Barbed wire fences surround the mammoth plant here, and federal guards are on duty day and night at the plant.

The distillery is to be remodeled, re-equipped, and converted into a huge cereal plant in the near future.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply with the fingers and works right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

SAYS SON-IN-LAW HEADED ROBBERS

AND USED BURNED CORK TO CONCEAL IDENTITY.

(Special to The Herald)

Hillsboro, O., January 6.—George Williams, who, early in December was robbed at his home, near Locust Grove, by four men, three colored and the fourth having a layer of burnt cork upon his face and hands to give the impression that he, too, was colored, has charged his son-in-law, Alvin T. Blackwood, 36, with being the "mysterious white man" who headed the gang of robbers from Cincinnati.

One of the bandits was shot, and later apprehended in Baltimore, and when confronted with Blackwood, readily identified the man as the one who had led the gang of four robbers when told that there was a large amount of money concealed about to place.

Blackwood was arrested at his father-in-law's home the first of the week, after staying over night there. Williams felt sure that his son-in-law was the man wanted, and had one of his daughters to go to the home of a neighbor and summon the sheriff, who placed the man under arrest. He is now confined in the West Union jail with bond fixed at $3,000.

MERCHANTS MAKE ANNUAL INVOICE

Most of the merchants of the city and county have been engaged in making the annual invoice, since the first of the year, some having completed the work and other now being in the midst of this annual task.

The importance of the annual invoice has been stressed as the only reliable manner in which a merchant can ascertain his income for the past year, and this is almost a necessity. It is pointed out by reason of filling out income tax blanks properly.

ONE OF THE LARGEST 'BUILDING AND LOANS'

BUCKEYE STATE OF COLUMBUS GROWN TO BIG PROPORTIONS

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—The Buckeye State Building and Loan Co., Columbus, celebrated its thirty-first anniversary on New Years day with the largest resources in its history, $31,206,523.33.

A notable feature of this well known institution is that several of its present officers and directors were among the original incorporators. Its president, Mr. L. P. McCullough, was included in this number and started as assistant secretary.

During 31 years The Buckeye has grown in membership and resources.

It is the largest Building and Loan in Ohio and the third largest in America.

By reason of conservatism and safe policies The Buckeye has prospered. Over $380,000,000 have been received loaned and disbursed.

Through economical management there has been saved out of net profits each year a reserve and surplus now totaling $1,280,000, held for the benefit of all members and as a guarantee against loss to investor.

BLIZZARD STRIKES HOME

Coughs and colds are a natural sequence to an unexpected blizzard, and should be treated promptly to offset complications. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a pleasant and effective remedy for coughs and colds. Keep a bottle on hand for any emergency.

"The children and I had colds and the first dose of Foley's Honey and Tar helped us right away," writes Mrs. Mather, Richmond, Ohio. Foley's Honey and Tar is a good cough remedy for the whole family. It contains no opiates, Blackmer and Tanguary.—Advt.
